

TABLE OF CONTENTS

List of abbreviations	11
Introduction	13
CHAPTER ONE
Between the sacred and the infernal – framing the concepts. . . .	23
1.1. (Re)creation of the sacred – the notions of the sacred, the profane and the infernal	23
1.2. Borderlands of evil – moral issues in philosophical and religious thought	31
CHAPTER TWO
Blessed islands and barren lands – geographical dimension of the created universes structured around the notions of the sacred, the profane and the infernal	43
2.1. Further west than West – J. R. R. Tolkien's shaping of Arda . .	43
2.2. Shores in mists – Marion Zimmer Bradley's vision of Britain	66
2.3. Doors in the air – numerous worlds in Philip Pullman's His Dark Materials	79
CHAPTER THREE
The chosen and the cursed ones – heroes in quest of good, truth and freedom	95
3.1. Fearless and hardy of heart – the need of independence at the core of J. R. R. Tolkien's mythopoeia	95
3.2. A great destiny to fulfil – The Mists of Avalon as a struggle against the imposed roles	114
3.3. God destroyer – between innocence and experience, fighting for a choice in His Dark Materials	131

CHAPTER FOUR

“A light from the shadows shall spring” – in search of morality for the contemporary world	151
4.1. “[M]uch shall be destroyed and all may be lost” – the theory of courage as a way to oppose darkness in J. R. R. Tolkien’s writings	151
4.2. The Witches’ Island – the clash of two moralities in The Mists of Avalon	175
4.3. True stories – Philip Pullman’s vision of a full and humane life.	187
Conclusion	207
The refracted light – fantasy as the contemporary mythmaking . .	207
Streszczenie	213
Works cited	217